PLAN TO OIL TOWN STREETS

Town Council and Citizens to Co-operate in Effort to do Away with Dust Nuisance. Annual House Cleaning in May.

Several of the more important streets of town are to be oiled in the very near future according to action taken at an adjourned meeting of the town council held on Friday evening. Property owners are expected to co-operate with the borough authorities and to share the expense of the work.

Dr. E. H. Markley and J. G. Slonaker appeared at the meeting to ask council to put the first square of York Street in condition and to allow the residents of that portion of town, at their own expense, to oil the street. It was stated that the street was in bad repair and, after discussion, council passed a motion providing that sufficient stone be put on the street to form a solid foundation, that said stone should then be rolled and after that work is completed the oil shall be placed at property owners' expense.

To further extend the oiling plan the highway committee was instructed to get prices on tarvia and similar preparations, and to ask the financial assistance of property owners on the first square of Chambersburg street to help pay for the placing of such preparation on that street. If the committee succeeds and the preparation proves satisfactory it is probable that similar work will be taken up in other parts of town and, in those sections, the sprinkler will not be needed.

Norman H. Musselman, of East Middle street, asked that council put the road in front of his properties in condition so that he may oil the street in that section. He also asked that the crossing to the Post Room be made passable as he wishes to brick a portion of the street and cannot do it successfully with the crossing in its present condition. Action on this question was deferred.

Council designated Thursday May 8 as Municipal House Cleaning Day. The custom of a day for the cleaning of the town was inaugurated last year and proved a great success. The rubbish which had gathered for years was hauled away at the expense of the borough and it is thought that the task this year will not be so great.

The plan of last May will be followed this year. Citizens are requested to place all rubbish in the alleys at the rear of their homes on the day before and borough teams will haul away the stuff on Thursday, May 8. Last year several days were required to complete the work and it is possible that the same condition will be repeated this year.

Mr. Codori reported that the pipes of the Gettysburg Gas Company and the Gettysburg Water Company had proved an obstruction under the Tiber bridge at Carlisle street, and that, as a result, there had been a large accumulation of rails, tin cans and various other kinds of debris which had hindered the flow of water at the times of heavy rains. The secretary was instructed to notify both companies to remove the pipes from their present locations and the highway committee was instructed to make necessary repairs to the bridge.

A communication was received from Dr. S. G. Hefelbower asking permission to run a drain across Springs avenue in order to get rid of the water in his lots on the south side of that street. Action deferred.

John Alban appeared before council to lay complaint about the water running over his pavement on North Washington street, due to the opening at the Tiber bridge being too high. Council authorized the laying of a uniform concrete curb from Water street to the bridge, the borough to pay one-third of the cost. The borough will then re-lay as much of Mr. Alban's pavement as necessary to have it conform to this grade.

Borough Attorney Wible was instructed to collect such liens as he, after investigation, finds collectible.

Some time was taken up with the request of Tax Collector Frock for exonerations on the 1909 duplicate. Council will complete the task of disposing of Mr. Frock's other duplicates next Wednesday, April 16.

Secretary Kitzmiller presented the duplicate for 1913. It was approved and ordered turned over to Tax Collector Bumbaugh after the necessary signatures and seal are attached.

THE curb market will open on Thursday, May 1st, 1913, at 6:00 a. m. I will be at the Star & Sentinel Office on Saturday, April 19th, for the purpose of renting stalls. All stalls to be paid for in advance. C. G. Miller, market master.—advertisement.

CIGARETTES AND THE HIGH SCHOOL

Too Many High School Boys Use Cigarettes to Allow the School to be Represented at Athletic Meet. Parent Teachers Meeting.

That there are not enough boys in the Gettysburg High School, who do not smoke cigarettes, to enable the school to put out a creditable track team was the statement made Friday evening by Prof. Walter R. Reynolds, of the faculty, before the meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association.

The local High School was selected to send a team to the big meet at State College on May 2 but when the available material was looked over, it was found that so many of the boys were addicted to the cigarette habit that it would be useless to try to pick out a team to compete—abstinence from this habit being essential to that branch of athletics. Prof. Reynolds stated also that the habit was making itself felt in other sports and his remarks caused others to comment on the condition.

A year ago the Parent Teachers' Association had copies of the law governing the sale of cigarettes to minors placed in all the stores of town which sell tobacco and would accept them. Three refused. It is not thought that the scheme worked wonders for the number of youngsters smoking in town now appears to be as great as ever.

The meeting Friday evening was the last for this school year and an attractive program was arranged. Miss Reba Miller played a piano solo; Miss Caroline Bream recited, and there was music by a quartet consisting of Mrs. R. E. Zinn, Miss Daisy Wentz, Joseph Stermer, and R. E. Zinn. Miss Helen Cope told of the benefits derived from teachers attending the various summer schools; Prof. Reynolds was given the subject "High School Athletics" and Prof. Sanders presented the interests of the coming Chautauqua, laying particular stress on the benefit of having the children take advantage of the morning sessions.

The contest for the banner was won again by Miss Lizzie Rummel's school for having the largest number of parents present.

Those who attended the session were again given the opportunity of seeing the work done in manual training, basket weaving, the art course and in sewing. A display of the work was arranged in the halls of the building and excited much interest.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served to all present and the adjournment which followed was to the second Friday in September.

He also has two other coverlets—each 60 years old, one made by Mr. Kump, of Hanover, and bearing the name of Sarah Schlage (Slagle) now Mrs. Diehl, the other manufactured and patented in Lancaster. ## BENDERSVILLE CASE CLOSED

Bendersville Bargain House Case is Heard and Attachment against Proprietor is Dissolved. Business House Re-opens.

At a hearing before the Court Friday, the attachment proceeding instituted by Samuel Waldman, Incorporated, against the Bendersville Bargain Store, conducted by Harry Levy, was dissolved.

This was a proceeding instituted by the Waldman Company alleging that Harry Levy and Herbert Levy were partners in the business, and that Herbert Levy fraudulently contracted a debt with that company. By reason of this claim against Herbert Levy the plaintiff company issued an attachment under the Fraudulent Debtors Act of 1869, and the Sheriff levied upon the merchandise of the store, which has been closed by reason thereof since the 21st of February.

It was provided to the entire satisfaction of the Court that Harry Levy was the sole owner and proprietor of the Bendersville store, and that he was not indebted to the plaintiff corporation, and had no connection whatever with the fraudulent contraction of the alleged debt against Herbert Levy. The attachment was therefore dissolved by the Court, and the Bendersville Store was released from the levy and is now open for business.

The local counsel were C. S. Duncan and William Hersh, Esqrs.

WOMEN SIGNERS

Names of Women Among those Backing Liquor Licenses.

The Frederick Anti-Saloon League published in local dailies the names of between 400 and 500 property owners who had signed applications for liquor licenses. About one-third of the signers are women. When the league announced its intention some weeks ago of publishing names of the signers, attorneys for the dealers threatened to sue the newspapers and the league in the event the plan was carried out, claiming it to be an attempt to intimidate. Later, when the names were obtained, the plan to sue was abandoned.

MADE POTTERY

He made a number of different shaped crocks, bottles and pitchers and other articles, moulding clay before the school. During the day, in cleaning up some rubbish on the rear of the High School lot an old vase was found and shown to Mr. Speese. Upon closer inspection it was found to have his name stamped on the bottom and the date "1886".

DANGEROUS DUMPLINGS

Family of William Giles Was Made Ill. All recovering.

A mistake in using arsenic for baking powder caused four members of the family of William Giles, of Boiling Springs, to become very ill and narrowly escape death from arsenical poisoning. Mrs. Giles made dumplings Tuesday, using what she thought was baking powder, but what was, in reality, arsenic which her son had purchased several days ago to tan some hides. Later they became ill and Dr. Lefever, of Boiling Springs, was consulted. The four members of the family who are ill are William Giles, and son Frank, and two grandsons, the children of Lee Shade. About one-half teaspoonful of the arsenic was used. The cans containing the respective substances became misplaced when the family moved April 1. The members of the Giles family are improved and no serious effects are anticipated.

CAUCUS FOR FREE SHOE MACHINES

First Break From Rates in New Tariff Bill

SUGAR MEN FIGHTING HARD

Efforts of Opponents of Free Sugar to Make Combinations With Those Opposed to Other Features Fails.

Washington, April 12.—The first change to be made in the Underwood tariff bill came yesterday.

The Democratic caucus of the house voted to put shoe machinery on the free list and the finance committee of the senate adopted a motion increasing the duties on pottery and glassware.

These changes probably are only a beginning, as protests are being received from manufacturers and producers in all parts of the country, and every incoming train is bringing delegations who are reported prepared to demand that amendments be offered.

The amendment adopted by the house caucus was offered by Representative Borland, of Missouri. It was carried by an overwhelming vote.

Chairman Underwood and his associates on the ways and means committee made no fight against the free shoe machinery amendment. They saw that the caucus was in sympathy with the amendment and practically let it pass by default. The argument in support of the amendment was that a trust controlled shoe machinery in this country, and for that reason it should be admitted duty free.

This was the only change made in the metal schedule. Democrats seem disposed to reduce rates on products supposed to be controlled by so-called trusts, and accordingly the section of the bill placing steel rails and iron ore on the free list went through with a whoop. Consideration of the metal schedule was concluded.

The caucus then took up the lumber schedule. Every effort to place articles of wood on the dutiable list, nearly all of which are admitted free by the Underwood bill, was defeated. In fact only a few members from lumber producing states of the south had the temerity to suggest that wood products should be retained on the dutiable list. Every time such an amendment was offered it was practically howled down, and no attempt was made to force a record vote in any instance.

An ugly feeling has been aroused over the sugar schedule. Members who want sugar admitted free immediately upon the passage of the bill appear to be just as determined as some who are now trying for an extension of the dutiable period from three to five years.

Efforts made by the opponents of free sugar and free wool to make a combination with other Democrats who are opposed to some of the features of the Underwood bill have so far failed. Present indications are that it will be impossible to effect any alliances among the disaffected elements against the organization headed by Representative Underwood. The organization has the support of the administration, and it is this fact that deters members disgruntled over the tariff bill from getting together.

The house caucus will be continued today and probably the meeting will be projected into next week. Little progress has been made on the bill in the last three days. Three schedules have been passed upon. There are thirteen other schedules, in addition to the income tax provision and the administrative features of the Underwood bill.

MORGAN'S BODY BACK HOME

There it will rest until Monday morning, when funeral services will be held in St. George's Protestant Episcopal church. Then it will be conveyed by special train to Hartford, Conn., and placed in the family mausoleum.

OHIO PASSES BILL TO PENSION MOTHERS

Gives $15 a Month For Child Under 14 Years.

Columbus, O., April 12.—The juvenile code bill, embodying mothers' pensions, passed the house, and when the senate concurs on an unimportant amendment will go to Governor Cox for his signature.

The bill makes provisions for an annual tax levy of one-tenth of a mill, which is expected to create a fund each year of not less than $700,000.

Destitute widows, women whose husbands are completely disabled, have deserted them or are serving prison sentences, are to be cared for.

Juvenile courts are authorized to pay such women $15 a month for a child under fourteen years of age and $7 a month for each additional child under that age.

Under the bill boys under fourteen years of age are prohibited from selling newspapers or chewing gum on the streets.

TROLLEY STRIKE ENDS

Buffalo Carmen and Company Agree to Arbitrate.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 12.—The strike of motormen and conductors of the International Railway company was settled and service resumed. The three regiments of the Fourth brigade, that have been on strike duty for three days, have been ordered to disband.

The men claim a complete victory, although they receded from their demand that the question of wages and hours, which are left to a committee of employees, should be conducted through representatives of the union.

The agreement under which the strike was called off was not signed by any official of the union, and this was considered another important concession by the strike leaders. The signatures attached to it were limited to former employees and President Connitt.

THE APPLE.

Scandinavian legends affirm that the apple was the favorite food of the gods. It was one of the first fruits grown by the humans; it was early introduced into England and brought from there to America. It is easily cultivated, bears fruit farther north than almost any other, and by means of grafting almost 2,000 varieties have been produced. These facts show in part why the apple stands at the head of all fruits.—Women's Home Companion.

RENOVATING WHITE CASHMERE.

This is also useful for fur hats or bonnets.

POPE RISES AND SITS IN CHAIR

FEVER SYMPTOMS PASS

Rumors in Rome of Death Causes Rush of Inquirers to Vatican—Sisters Are Cheerful.

Rome, April 12.—Pope Pius rose and sat in an armchair in the bedroom while his bed was being made.

The pope was feeling stronger and expressed disappointment at not being able to receive the pilgrims from Venice. He asked Cardinal Merry del Val to receive the pilgrims for him and hand each of them a commemorative medal.

A sister and niece of the pope visited him and remained several hours in his room, while Monsignor Bressan, private secretary to his holiness, celebrated mass. The pope prayed sitting up in bed. A rumor spread through the city that the pope was dead and this caused a rush of inquirers to the Vatican, where they found everything tranquil.

The pope at times complains of pains in the back, which increase when he sits up and also when he coughs. These and other symptoms are attributed by the physicians to renal neuralgia arising from influenza. Professor Marchiafava is apparently not quite satisfied with the progress of the recovery of strength. He is inflexible in his decision not to allow his patient to undergo any exertion.

The change for the better in the condition of Pope Pius was absolutely certain Friday, and the amelioration was so marked last night that if no complications intervene the speedy recovery of the pontiff to normal health seems practically assured.

There was a complete absence of fever and signs that the strength of the pope is beginning to return and the reappearance of cheerfulness in the patient are indications that even the relapse of influenza which the pope suffered on April 8 has been mastered.

The pope granted a longer conversation than usual to his sisters and niece, who, although dressed entirely in mourning because of the recent death of an elder sister of the pope, showed unmistakable signs of relief at the apparent improvement in the pope's health.

Speaking after seeing their brother, the pope's sisters, with their musical Venetian accent, said:

"Now we breathe again. What we have suffered these last few days is terrible. When he is ill we feel as if we are dying. When he is well we are in a seventh heaven. We live in his life."

THIRD FATALITY IN 4 DAYS

Workman Crushed to Death in Steel Plant at Pottsville.

Pottsville, Pa., April 12.—Modern machinery, installed at the plant of the Eastern Steel company, has kept fatalities down to the minimum, but this week three men were killed in four days.

The last fatality was that which befell Rheinhardt Weber, who was caught beneath a massive steel ingot, when a pile of six, upon which he was standing, collapsed. Such was the weight that his legs were practically severed when he was rescued. His death followed a short time after his removal. He leaves a widow and large family.

Simultaneously with the fatality at the ingot pile, Louis Minnichbach was badly burned by molten metal. He was pouring it into an ingot mold when gas suddenly accumulated and blew out the metal from the top of the mold.

EXPLOSION BURNS FOUR

Pottsville, Pa., April 12.—A heavy explosion of gas seriously burned four miners at the Buck Run colliery.

The explosion was caused by a miner walking into an accumulation of gas with a lamp. The heavy detonation shook the whole mine, and a rescuing party was formed, headed by "Jack" O'Brien, who recently rescued six entombed men at the same colliery.

The four men burned are: Anthony Atchills, of Buck Run; Alex Dempsey, Joseph Shamo and Stephen Dempsey, of Forsytheville. All four will recover.

AGGRESSIVE REPTILES.

King Cobras and Mambas are the Worst of the Snake Tribe.

The majority of snakes are not, as most people suppose, aggressive in their habits. But the British viper, far more numerous than any other of the human enemies, is the most dangerous than into it.

But there are a few famous, or infamous, exceptions. The mamba—one of the largest of the cobras and a native of Africa—is said to be the most dangerous reptile in the world. It will fly at anything and anybody; goes out of its way to pick a quarrel with every passerby and has even been known to come down from a tree where it was resting, apparently fast asleep, to try conclusions with a man armed with a gun. The only snake that at all approaches the mamba in ferocity is the great king cobra or hamadryad of the east, which is larger than the mamba and generally quite as ready to interfere with any living creature that comes within its ken. It has been known to chase a man on horse back, and so fast can it travel that is said to be a swift footed animal has any chance of escape.

The poison of both these snakes is so powerful that, as some one once stated in an examination paper on reptiles, "even a scientist when bitten by either of these ferocious creatures ceases to be interested in the matter after the space of a few minutes." Among the Australian cobras, the pit vipers of America and the great west African vipers, there are certain species that prefer the offensive to the defensive method, and in most cases it is the aggressive varieties that carry the most poisonous fangs.—London Globe.

Mahogany Cake.

Mix together and cook in double boiler, stirring till thickened and when cooled add one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of milk with scant teaspoonful of soda, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of vanilla and bake.

CURIOUS MANX LAWS.

Food and Drink Alone Are Taxed and Debtors Are Imprisoned.

In some respects the Isle of Man is one of the most backward portions of the British empire. All the revenue is raised by taxes on food and drink. There are no death duties, no property tax, no land tax. The working classes are unprotected as well as overtaxed. No factory laws exist, and no attempt has ever been made to limit the hours of shop assistants, although Manx law is essentially a nation of shopkeepers. Then, although usury is forbidden by law, imprisonment for debt is still legal and is commonly resorted to.

Yet Manx laws, although backward in some respects, are in other ways well advanced. Every woman, widow or spinster, in the Isle of Man, be she owner, occupier or lodger, enjoys the parliamentary franchise. Every widow enjoys half her husband's personal estate and has a life interest in his real estate, and she cannot be deprived of this by will.

The sale of cigarettes and intoxicants to children was forbidden in Man for years before such a prohibition was enforced in England. Englishmen have legislated mildly against money lenders. The highest interest that can be charged in the island is 6 per cent, and that has been the law for over 200 years.—Chicago News.

LUXURIOUS KITCHENS.

They Used Silver Lined Saucers in the Old Days in Rome.

While the housewife today prides herself, and with reason, on the equipment and conveniences of her establishment, she need not think that centuries ago other women in other lands were not equally well provided. Indeed, the kitchens of Roman women were much more luxuriously fitted out than are most kitchens of today.

Now, in the days when the Roman empire was at its height, if you went into the culinary department of an elegant establishment you would find saucers lined with silver and pails of various description richly lined with arabesques in silver and shovels that were handsomely and intricately carved. Egg frames, too, that would cook twenty eggs at once and pastry molds shaped like shells and an infinite assortment of griddles, frying pans, chafers and tart dishes.

The toilet tables of the Roman women were well supplied in the same lavish fashion. Ivory combs, perfumes, cosmetics, hairpins, even an elaborate hair net of gold, have been recently unearthed. Safety pins, too, which have for a long time been considered a strictly modern invention, could be found on their tables. But they had no brushes nor any glass mirror, the kind they used being of silver or other white metals.—Chicago Tribune.

"Pail Mail."

Even the British, the London British, are not agreed upon the proper pronunciation of "Pail Mail." The Pail Mail Gazette has published scores of letters on the subject, one from J. Henderson Couter, being in part as follows: "It really does not seem to matter much whether Pail Mail used to be 'Pail Maille' or 'Pail Maw.' Both are probably incorrect etymologically. I had an old grandmother, one of the old school. Were she alive today she would be about 110. She always spoke of it as 'Pell Mell.' But, then, she preserved most of the old fashioned pronunciations, such as 'laylock' for 'lilac,' 'obleegee' for 'oblige,' 'sassinizers' for 'sausages' and 'gould' for 'gold.' This may have been, and probably was, a sheer affectation on her part. Anyhow, she tested a new manservant by hearing how he could knock on a front door."

BALKAN ALLIES MAY FIGHT OVER SALONIKA

Bulgaria Claims City Conquered

London, April 12.—Bulgaria is making formal claims to the possession of Salonika, now occupied by the Greek troops, according to a dispatch from Belgrade, Serbia.

The dispatch adds that Bulgaria is taking military measures to support her claims, while Greece is concentrating her army along the railway leading to Salonika.

Powers Divided on Salonika.

Vienna, April 12.—The powers composing the Triple Alliance, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy, advocate, according to the Neue Freie Presse, that Salonika should be given to Bulgaria as compensation for the cession of Silesia and a strip of Bulgarian territory to Rumania.

Russia and France, on the other hand, are of the opinion that Greece should have Salonika, while England appears to favor the view of the Triple Alliance.

It was announced a few days ago that Greece had transferred a division of her army from the province of Epirus to Salonika.

BLAMES DANCING AND DRINK

Settlement Worker Tells Vice Commission Why Girls "Go Wrong."

Chicago, April 12.—Dance halls, where liquor is sold to girls and where they can meet men were ascribed as the cause of the downfall of many young women by Mrs. Gertrude H. Britton, a settlement worker, who testified before the Illinois vice commission.

"In a thorough investigation we found that there were 200 dance halls in Chicago where liquor is sold to girls under sixteen years old," said Mrs. Britton. "In some of the other places the so-called 'soft' drinks were analyzed by the city chemist were found to contain alcohol."

"Our investigators learned that respectable dance halls were a good thing, for they provide diversion for many young people without endangering their morals. But the selling of liquor to girls often is found the first step toward their ruin."

"Myrtle S.," seventeen years old, told the commission how she was seduced by her father, the chance meeting of a "jolly fellow," and his giving her drug led her downfall.

ANNOY ROYALTY OVER V. FOR W.

Ladies-in-Waiting Anger Queen

DISCORD IN THE PALACE

Discussion of Policy of Militant Suffragettes in Royal Household Grows Warm.

London, April 12.—Suffragism has invaded the sacred precincts of Buckingham Palace and has caused a small revolution in the royal household, one of the highly placed members of it resigning owing to the ill-feeling that her attitude on the question aroused among her colleagues.

Queen Mary originally regarded with favor the granting of the vote to women, but the policy of the militant suffragettes of wrecking property, assaults on public men, burning letters in mail boxes and open defiance of the law has completely alienated her majesty's sympathy for the suffragette organizations.

First one lady in a minor post in the royal household resigned. She informed the queen that the forcible feeding of women was in her opinion an outrage, and said she would like to be free to express her opinion on the subject in public. Soon afterward two other ladies of the household of much greater importance expressed sympathy with the suffragettes at the luncheon table.

The ladies and gentlemen of the household, by the way, do not, unless specially invited, lunch with their majesties, but in a separate apartment known as the household dining room. The remarks of the two women in question caused a somewhat warm discussion on the merits and demerits of the militant suffragettes, most of which was later repeated to her majesty.

The queen was intensely annoyed with the two ladies in question, and both were summoned to the royal presence. What precisely took place there no one knows, but almost directly afterward one of the ladies, Lady Shatterbury, resigned her position in the royal household. The other still remains in her post, but has not been in residence at Buckingham Palace in the last three weeks.

There are now in the royal household several women who are avowed supporters of the militants, and although they must not, so long as they are members of the royal establishment, take part in the suffragette movement, they can express their views within the walls of the palace except in the royal presence, and this they do at every opportunity, with the result that heated arguments are continually taking place in the household dining room and the drawing room set apart for the ladies in waiting.

Suffragettes burned the pavilion at the Tunbridge Wells cricket field. The building was totally destroyed.

A large photograph of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant leader, now in Holloway jail, was left at the scene of the fire.

At the home office Secretary Reginald McKenna admitted that Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the imprisoned militant leader, is very weak from "hunger striking," but he asserted that her condition could not be considered in any way critical and that therefore there was little probability of her release today. This was Mrs. Pankhurst's ninth day without food.

LAYMURDER TO HOLYROLLERS

Man Threatened by Sect Found Dead in Virginia.

Hinton, W. Va., April 12.—Twenty-one members of the Holy Rollers' religious sect were indicted by the grand jury of Carroll county, Va., for conspiracy to cause the death of David King.

Because King would not allow his wife to affiliate with them, it is said, he incurred the enmity of the Holy Rollers, and in retaliation they offered up public prayers on several occasions for his "removal."

When King entered a meeting and forced his wife to accompany him to her home, it is alleged that Rev. Frazier, conducting the service, informed King that he would be "done away with" if he persisted in preventing his wife from attending the Holy Roller revivals.

Shortly after this King was found dead, and the circumstances surrounding his death were never unraveled.

MEXICO BLAMES U. S. FOR HER TROUBLES

Withholding of Recognition
Weakens Huerta.

Mexico City, Mex., April 12.—The withholding of official recognition of the United States has materially weakened the Huerta government.

This is the opinion generally expressed by the public and privately admitted in certain Mexican official circles.

The new rebel movement has made greater progress than has the provisional government in suppressing insurgency, and it is no longer a secret that the condition of the treasury is such as will not permit the continuation of military operations much longer. This has been publicly admitted by the Mexican minister of the interior, Garcia Granados.

The chamber of deputies has not approved the proposed foreign loan, but its failure to take up this matter is said to be due to a desire to avoid further embarrassing the finance department, which so far has been unable to arrange for the flotation of the loan, notwithstanding recent assurances to that effect in London. It is assumed by the government that its inability to issue the loan is due directly to non-recognition by Washington.

Editorial writers comment upon this phase of the situation, and there has begun a propaganda in the Mexican press tending to place responsibility for the fate of Mexico on the United States.

Rebels practically control the states of Sonora, Coahuila and Durango in the north, while the situation in the south, where Emiliano Zapata still is in control, has not materially been changed.

$60,000 TRAIN ROBBERY

Chihuahua, Mex., April 12.—Word reached here that General Francisco (Pancho) Villa, former bandit, now in the field at the head of 700 constitutionalists, held up a Mexican Northern train near here and took more than $60,000 worth of silver bullion after a fierce fight, in which eight persons were slain.

According to the advices the attack on the train occurred at San Andres, twenty-five miles west of here. The stolen bullion, which consisted of 12 bars valued at 1000 pesos each, was the property of the Dolores Mining company, an American concern.

The Hard Luck of Mr. Nichol.

Graham B. Nichol has been mentioned by the leading authorities of the United States as the greatest poker player in this country. If you do not credit his pre-eminence in his national indoor sport you may be reassured by sending queries to many gentlemen in Seattle, San Francisco, Indianapolis and Washington. The peculiar feature of his ability is that he always wins.

One afternoon he came out of a club in Washington and gave some of his acquaintances the greatest shock of their lives. He looked dismal, dreary and mournful. There was in his eyes a hunted look.

"What's the matter?" asked one of those whom he met.

"I've had the biggest losing I ever had in my life," said Nichol gloomily.

"How much did you lose?"

"Oh," he explained wearily, "I only won $5.50!" —Popular Magazine.

She Said the Wrong Thing.

"I shall never forget the breakfast I gave to a pretty girl whom I first knew her," the short man began. "It would make your mouth water to hear what it was—grapefruit to begin with the most delicate of breakfast food with cream, a choice broiled chicken—it was a late breakfast—the finest of fruit, coffee. I can't remember the things I ordered for her at that breakfast, and what do you think she said when she finished? She said: 'You needn't have gone to so much trouble. I don't care for anything but a couple of eggs for my breakfast and a piece of toast.'"

"It was the wrong thing to say, I will admit," sighed his wife. "I was that girl, and I have been living ever since on a couple of eggs and a piece of toast for my breakfast."

The Butt of the Camp

By SADIE OLCOTT

Hanging about a mining camp in the far west was an Indian girl whose name was so unpronounceable that she was called Sal. She was not the typical Indian maiden of song and story, but a real daughter of the forest, which means that she was not beautiful, not over clean, and her hair hung down, coarse and straight, on her shoulders. At least it would have hung straight if it had been combed.

Sal was not popular with the campers, but she could be made useful for a very small expenditure. Men who had an accumulation of unwashed dishes could hire her for a few cents, an old piece of ribbon or some tobacco to do the job so that they could start anew with their tableware and use it all over again. A drudge like that is always sure to get all the cuffing that springs from ill temper, and Sal had no one to divide it with. If any one lost anything she was accused of having taken it and ill treated until it was found, which was often in the possession of the owner. The Indian is proverbially revengeful, but Sal seemed unusually patient under the rough treatment she received. All wondered why she didn't stay with her people who were settled on their reservation on the other side of the divide, but despite her unattractiveness Sal seemed to realize that whites were superior to Redskins, and she would rather be the butt among the former than stand high among the latter.

One day Sal got in the way of Tom Barton when he was stamping his way through the camp in a very bad humor. He gave her a bat on the side of her head that sent her to the ground. A young and comely man called Ohio Sam, he having come from the highly civilized state of that name, saw the transaction and was so incensed at a man striking a woman that he walked up to Barton and batted him as he had batted Sal. Barton was too cowardly to fight, so he took it out in jawing. As soon as Ohio Sam was convinced that he was not called upon to give the fellow any satisfaction he turned and walked away.

A coward, a mean coward, who will domineer over those he can safely impose upon, though he will not stand up in open fight, will usually take a meaty revenge. Sal seemed to understand this better than her champion. She kept an eye on Barton, expecting that he would manage some day to get the drop on Rowley, which was Ohio Sam's name, and shoot him before he could draw.

One night Rowley was awakened by a pistol shot within a few feet of him. There was just light enough—it was coming dawn—to see two persons at the entrance of his cabin. One was Barton, with a smoking pistol in his hand; the other was Sal, whose hand was under Barton's weapon. It was evident that she had just knocked it upward. The villain retired and was not seen around the camp again.

Rowley, sensible of Sal's having saved his life, after this treated her with as much consideration as he could one of her low degree. This seemed to encourage her to tidy up a bit, and she appeared in a white woman's discarded dress that she picked up somewhere. One day she went to Rowley and told him that his enemy, Barton, was hanging at a distance about the camp and she believed he was bent on mischief. Rowley had best avoid going out where he could be shot in the back. The young man smiled and said he didn't believe Barton quite so low as that and thought no more about the matter.

That same evening, having occasion to go beyond the camp, he was walking along when he heard two shots in a wood by the path and thought he heard a woman's cry. Turning toward it, he came upon Sal lying on her back with a bullet hole in her forehead. She was dead. Seeing a man's legs on the ground, his body concealed behind a tree, Rowley went to where it was and found Barton gasping. He died in a few minutes from a bullet wound behind the ear.

It was perfectly plain that Sal had again saved his life, and this time at the expense of her own. Taking her up, he carried her to the camp, and as the delirious gathered round while Rowley told the story hats came off one by one and there were those who had imposed on the girl whose eyes were moist.

Rowley sent word to the girl's people asking if they wished to show their dead kinswoman any funeral honors. They responded: "Sal no good. Sal leave her own wigwam to be white people's slave. We no want her."

This was the reply Rowley received with regard to a girl who had owned his life, yet gave her own for its preservation. The message stung him. What had he done in acknowledgment in repayment for her first interposition? He could do nothing for the dead. Sadly he arranged for the interment of the body and when it took place those who had not given a kind word to the Indian girl in life stood reverently about her grave, each casting in a green sprig.

Somehow Rowley was never the same man after the tragedy. He could never forgive a selfish world for ill treating one who was so unselfish. He did not blame himself for not having shown a more perfect acknowledgment of the girl's interest in him, for there was nothing that he could have done. The board he erected over her grave he simply marked "Sal."

KILLED BY TREE

Fulton County Boy Crushed Against Adjoining Stump.

After eating his dinner, one day recently, Benson Akers, accompanied by his young brother Vernon, of Fulton County, went to the woods nearby to cut down trees for cross ties. The first tree they cut was a large white oak, and when it started to fall Benson shouted to Vernon, who was standing near, to run away, but before he could do so, the trunk of the tree split and swerved to one side, catching the boy and crushing him up against an adjoining stump with tremendous force. The tree then rebounded, allowing the young man to fall to the ground. Benson lifted him up, and with the unconscious form started to the house, three hundred yards distant. Before reaching their home, Vernon regained consciousness, but soon again relapsed, and died ten minutes after being taken into the house.

Constitutional Amendments.

For the first time since 1820, when the constitution of the United States was amended prohibiting restriction of suffrage on account of "race, color or previous condition of servitude," has another amendment been added—the sixteenth. It relates to the tax on incomes. It has taken almost four years to ratify it. This has been true of no other amendment, excepting the eleventh. The first ten amendments to the constitution were adopted in 1789, very early in the history of the government, and were made to correct oversights of the constitutional convention. They were submitted in block and ratified in less than two years. The eleventh amendment, submitted by congress in 1794, was declared adopted in 1798. The twelfth amendment, submitted in 1803, was declared adopted in 1804. The thirteenth amendment, submitted in 1865, was ratified during the same year. The fourteenth amendment was submitted in 1866 and declared ratified in 1868. The fifteenth amendment, submitted in 1870, was declared ratified

Record Breaking Cabinet Service.
When on March 4 James Wilson of the department of agriculture stepped out of office he left the duration record of the hundreds of other cabinet officers far behind. Strangely enough, the record held under Wilson's time was made by a man who left office nearly a century ago. This was Albert Gallatin, who was secretary of the treasury under Jefferson and Madison, retiring on Feb. 9, 1814, after having been in office twelve years and nine months. Secretary Wilson had been in office sixteen years, entering on March 4, 1897, and sat at the council table of three presidents—McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. He served just twice as long as did his three predecessors in his office—Norman J. Colman, Jeremiah M. Rusk and J. Sterling Morton.—Leslie's.
